

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to a cowshed arrangement with a central region and with bedding regions, arranged around the central region. According to the invention, a larger number of animals can be housed in the cowshed arrangement and milked, whereby at least one milking region runs in an essentially radial direction.